Farmers and Threshermen! - Your Harvest Help Requires Wholesome Meat this Season

The men will gladly "Roll-out" in the morning, if they know that the cook is going to give them the Bacon and Ham that he knows we handle. It is along time until dinner but they are satisfied when the most loaf or park is what we supply. Oh! that lunch in the afternoon is what hits the spot if (as filling for the sandwiches) comes from this shop. As soon as they have eaten the lunch, they begin to say, "supper is going to be likin' good because we know where the 'Boss' bought the meat."

Gaming House Was Raided

Proprietor and Frequenters Of The "Monte Carlo" Up Before Local J. P.'s

At a late hour on Saturday night, the now famous "Monte Carlo" was raided by provincial detectives, when a bunch of eight were rounded up and taken to the P.N.W.M.P. barracks. Bail was granted to six of these men, the other two being compelled to remain in the "coop" till Monday, when the trial of all took place before Justices of the Peace Tupper and Millister.

Ed. Horn, proprietor of the gaming den, was up on two charges: conducting a disorderly house where poker was played, and serving intoxicating drinks, contrary to the "Liquor Act."

Of the other seven "roped in the round-up" three were charged with gambling, one was charged with dinking intoxicating liquor, contrary to the "Liquor Act" and three appeared on both charges.

In every case but one, the men pleaded "guilty" and fines of $20.00 and costs for gambling and $50.00 and costs for dinking were imposed.

T. Lafferty pleaded "not guilty" but the court found him guilty and he had to pay a fine of $50.00 and costs.

In addition to the fines imposed, the men brought up lost some hundred odd dollars, the money on the table at the time the raid was made. This was seized with the rest of the paraphernalia by the crown.

During the proceedings, some amusement was caused when explanations of the values of the chips were given. It appeared that the blue and the red ones were worth 50 cents each, while the white were worth "two-bits."

Evidence which made the convictions possible, was obtained by one of the detectives who got employment sometime ago as a carpenter. He actually helped to build the shack in which the games were played and on several occasions sat in the game himself and (according to reports did not do very well).

Youth is Wounded By Accidental Discharge Of Shotgun

H. Fenner the eleven year old son of J. H. Fenner received a painful wound when a shot gun, carried by his brother was accidentally discharged. He was walking slightly ahead of his brother when the gun went off and the charge tore off a portion of his right ear, and some of the shot made superficial wounds in his cheek and forehead.

After a consultation with Dr. Swartzlander, Mr. Fenner took his son into Calgary where he received attention.

It is understood that the wounds inflicted, while being painful, are not sufficiently serious to cause the boy's parents much anxiety.

The End Not Yet In Sight.

No one has ever refused Lloyd George of undying optimism about the progress of the war, although he has never doubted the final victory of the Allies. But he has always shared Lord Kitchener's belief that the war would be a long one requiring the utmost efforts on the part of the British Empire and her Allies.

Mr. Churchill speaking in the House of Commons, declared that the German armies in the field on all fronts were never more numerous or better equipped than they were today. It was the diminution of the German reserves in relation to the growing power of the Allies which constituted the secure foundation on which we might build our just hopes of a certain victorious conclusion of the struggle, while the demoralization of Austria was of great importance. But none of the facts, he declared, carried with them the assurance of speedy peace.

Although this may be correct there is quite a difference in the military situation today and three months ago. At that time the Russians appeared to be held in the east and Austrians seemed to be about to overrun the plains of Italy, while the Germans were launching our lines with continual attacks. But today east and west the initiative has been wrested from the enemy. He knows that he has gone as far as possible and that he is on the defensive. Although the tables have been turned the end is not yet. There are many valleys to cross, many ridges to storm before we see the final victory. "WHAT IS WANTED YET," says Mr. Lloyd George, "IS MORE GUNS, MORE MORTARS, MORE MEN, A GREATER DETERMINATION AND MORE RESOURCES. WE WILL NEED BEFORE THE END IS REACHED."

Now is the opportunity for every true Britisher to test his love for his country and the right, by doing his bit in this great struggle and help in winning liberty, civilization and straight dealing, thereby showing the Kaiser and the German people that right is not to be overcome by might.

Our Very Own Battalion.

The 187th, Central Alberta Battalion, "The Veterans and Our Own" is making a fine record at Sarcee Camp. At several inspections, notably that made by General Hughes, it received the very highest praise.

Only a few more men are needed to bring this splendid battalion up to strength when it will be prepared to play its part in the greatest fight for Right and Liberty that the world has ever known. Every patriotic citizen should assist in the work of the final recruiting campaign now being launched.

"If you cannot go yourself, see it that you do not discourage from going, those who can."

Lt.-Col. Robinson is very proud of the battalion under his command and is confident he has the finest body of men in camp and the officers and men are justly proud of their O. C. Lt.-Col. Robinson's splendid record is one which will be an inspiration to every man in his battalion and it is not to be wondered at that each officer and man reposes the supreme confidence in him and feel that their O. C. is without superior.

The promise made when the battalion was first organized that places would be reserved for promotion from the ranks has been kept. Within the past few weeks Sergeants Sturley, Forbes, Roughton and Standish have been given commissions as lieutenants.

Patriotic Honor Roll

If an honor roll of those communities which have done best for the Patriotic Fund were to be established, the village of Erskine would surely merit a prominent place on it. With a population of somewhat less than 200, Erskine has contributed to the Patriotic Fund since the first of February the sum of $708.50. It is perhaps not wise to make comparisons, no doubt there are other places with similar creditable showings, but if every locality responded as Erskine has done, there would be no problem about raising the Patriotic Fund. How many communities will move over into the Erskine class when the big campaign starts shortly?

H. A. Braeuchle Found Dead Near His Brother's Home

On Thursday afternoon of last week the body of H. A. Braeuchle was found near his brother's home which is situated a few miles north west of Alonsak.

Braeuchle left Oyen on Thursday morning to receive medical attention in Alonsak, for a blow on the eye, which he received in an argument about a board bill. He received attention and was given a bottle of liniment to rub on the bruise and appeared to be quite well when he started out for his brother's place, but at a later hour his body was found about two hundred feet from the house.

As a result of the police inquiry, a well known local man was apprehended pending Coroner's inquest, which was held Alonsak on Saturday. A post-mortem was held, and it was found that Braeuchle had drunk the liniment intended for external application only, and a verdict of suicide was brought in. The local man was released on Sunday morning.

A Shrewd Buyer

The average farmer has it all over the average city man in the care with which he selects his motor car. The latter is usually strong on looks and design, but doesn't figure that knowledge of mechanical details is of special value to him, because he is in close touch with repair shops and garages where possible troubles may be promptly remedied.

The ruralite, however, is nearly always some miles away from mechanical aid, and his experience with farm machinery in general, has taught him more or less about machinery. He is usually handy with tools and can make ordinary repairs himself.

He is familiar with gas engines which are a common item of farm equipment, so in choosing his motor car he takes careful note of its mechanical features. He wants a motor car that is simple in construction but with plenty of power to carry him over the none too good country roads.

He wants a car that is dependable, so he buys a Ford

He wants a car that is easy on tires and one that will give him twenty miles and over per gallon of gasoline. Economy in upkeep cost is a matter he considers carefully. He works hard for his money and he takes care to spend it where he will get value received.

The majority of farmers today are driving the Ford because it meets all their requirements. The farmer knows from the experience of thousands of other Ford owners that he gets his money's worth and then some. It is a profitable investment, and can be put to a thousand different uses where time saved means money in the pocket.

The farmer, too, finds it keeps the young folks content to live on the farm, enabling them to still keep in close touch with the towns and cities nearby. Knowing they can get into town easily in the evening, there isn't the temptation to desert the farm for the attractions which appear to exist in town and city life. The Ford is the car for the farmer and his family and is just as important a utility on the farm as a mower, or any other farm implement.

Kirkwall, Lanfine And Keswick Red Cross Society

Now that we have had a Red Cross Society organized in the combined districts of Kirkwall, Lanfine and Keswick, for some months, a report of our work may prove interesting.

We organized on March 9th, with six members. Since then we have held twelve meetings, meeting once every two weeks at the home of one of the members. We have knitted a number of socks, besides making bed jackets, pyjamas, etc. for our soldiers. Up till May 23, we worked for other local branches, since then we have bought our work direct from the Provincial Red Cross headquarters at Calgary.

During this time, in addition to our work we have had several small cash contributions. The members have paid a small fee each. A quilt was disposed of, for which we realized about $6.00. In all we have collected about $25.00. Of that we have contributed $5.00 to the relief of our wounded prisoners in Germany, and $10.00 to the work of the Provincial Red Cross Society. Our membership at present is twenty. We have started another quilt, in addition to our regular sewing and knitting. These meetings are well attended, and are enjoyed by all, each lady gladly entertaining in her turn. Supper is provided and a social time spent. In this way we feel that we are doing something for our boys at the front, and so doing our bit for our Empire.—Contributed.

Her eyes were not exactly straight, and some one commented upon it and asked Jones if he had noticed it.

"Noticed it, man?" he replied. "Why, she is so crossed that recently when I sat next to her at a dinner she ate off my plate."

An Indian went in to pay his subscription to the "Chief." He asked the editor for a receipt, but the journalist kept on talking and failed to give him the receipt. The Indian wanted the receipt, so kindly informed the newspaperman what he wanted. "Why do you want a receipt?" queried the editor.

"Why, because when I die, and St. Peter at the gates, asks me if I have paid all my debts, I want to show him all receipts, and don't want to go all over hell looking for you."—Stolen.

Separator Burned

At an early hour on Monday morning, a separator, owned by Mr. Henry McDonald was burned to the ground. Some time before daylight Mr. McDonald awoke and saw the reflection of the flames and got up to investigate. There is every indication that the fire was the work of an incendiary, as burned hay was found where the separator had been standing.

Foot prints near the burnt remains, have been traced across the trail and this fact strengthens the supposition that the fire was deliberate work.
